

Kathleen R. Miner, PhD, MPH, CHES
Associate Dean for Applied Public Health
Rollins School of Public Health
Emory University

Kathleen Miner is the Associate Dean for Applied Public Health at the Rollins School of Public Health, Emory University and Professor in the Department of Behavioral Sciences and Health Education. Prior to her position at Emory, Dr. Miner worked for the Georgia Department of Human Resources in the Division of Public Health as the Assistant to the Director of the Family Health Section and the Coordinator of Health Marketing and Health Education. She has been a full time faculty member at Emory since 1985. During her tenure at Emory, Dr. Miner has served as the Principal Investigator on grants and contracts totaling over $43 million in funding. She has also served as a national consultant on the development of professional competencies including health education, applied epidemiology, cancer and public health informatics. She has been elected to a number of professional association positions including, President of the Georgia Public Health Association, and President of the Council on Education for Public Health.